

Uu-a-thluk Dishes Up

SUMMER FUN

for 2009

Coming this fall...

Nisma Cultural Programs

Join Tla-o-qui-aht guide Gisele Martin for adventures into her traditional territory by dugout canoe. Students living in the Central Nuuchahnulth Region will learn about edible and medicinal plants, navigation on the water, and more.

Ucluelet Feasting Project

Working together as a team, members of the Ucluelet community will plan, harvest, and cook a community dinner based on traditional sea foods and plants.

Taking Care of Communities

Uu-a-thluk (your NTC fisheries department) increases Nuuchahnulth access to, and management of, sea resources and builds Nuuchahnulth capacity to find jobs and careers related to the ocean. To learn more, call 1-877-677-1131 or visit www.uuathluk.ca.

Lace up your runners, slip on your hoodie, and crack out your magnifying glass—this summer, Uu-a-thluk is delivering amazing and delicious programs to a community near you. Come join us!

Sustainability Camp • This June, grade six students from Wickaninnish Community School and Maaqtusiis Elementary will spend two nights and three days learning about environmental issues and developing solutions for positive change. The future is what you make it.

Clayoquot Field Station in Tofino June 9-11

Science Venture Camps • Back by popular demand, these weeklong day camps partner University of Victoria science students with groups of youth in grades 3-6 for five days of hands-on activities in science, engineering, and technology. Water balloons included!

Anacla July 13 - 17, Yuquot, August 10 - 14, and Kyuquot August 3 - 7.

Future Leaders on the Water (FLOW) • Join us for fun-filled leadership training and hands-on learning about traditional wisdom, marine ecology, and shellfish aquaculture. Hosted by the Centre for Shellfish Research, this overnight camp is for youth ages 13-18.

Moorecroft Camp in Nanoose Bay, July 2-8.

Community Kitchens • Here's your chance to learn delicious recipes and harvesting skills from your elders through a series of homegrown workshops focused on traditional food knowledge. Bring your tastebuds! Workshops open to youth and elders of all ages.

Dates to be announced, watch for notices in your community.

All programs are courtesy of Uu-a-thluk. To register or learn more, contact Norine Messer at 250-723-5594 or by email at norinemesser@hotmail.com

